

AGENDA REPORT

Meeting Date: May 6, 2014
Item Number: G-2
To: Honorable Mayor & City Council
From: Cheryl Friedling, Deputy City Manager for Public Affairs
Subject: PROPOSAL FROM THE CENTENNIAL DOCUMENTARY VOLUNTEER COMMITTEE
Attachments: 1. Proposal
2. List of Centennial Events and Initiatives

RECOMMENDATION

It is recommended that the City Council review the Centennial documentary film proposal and provide feedback. Should Council agree conceptually with the proposal and budget, staff recommends that the Council authorize the City Manager to execute an agreement with Deadline Digital for a not-to-exceed amount of $75,000.

INTRODUCTION

This item provides a proposal, including a budget and treatment, for a documentary film showcasing the City's 100-year history through a series of vignettes.

DISCUSSION

In August 2013, the City Council approved the portfolio of events and initiatives to commemorate the City's Centennial year. The programming is intended to engage all segments of the community by offering events and initiatives that appeal to residents, businesses and tourists. The list of events and initiatives included $250,000 for a Centennial Documentary Film. At a subsequent meeting the Council redirected $100,000 of this funding to other Centennial initiatives. Thus, the total funding for the Centennial documentary was reduced to $150,000.

At the October 3, 2013 study session meeting, three volunteer teams presented their vision for the Centennial documentary. Ultimately the City Council allocated $75,000 towards a Centennial documentary film led by Karla Gordy-Bristol and $75,000 towards an oral history initiative led by Phil Savenick.

At the meeting Mr. Savenick shared a sample of the oral history project footage and Council directed staff to work with Mr. Savenick on a project scope of work and agreement for his services.

In addition, Council requested that Ms. Gordy Bristol's team return with a more detailed proposal, including a treatment and budget. Ms. Gordy Bristol is working with Deadline Digital, a production company that has developed segments for 60 Minutes, 20/20 and The Amazing Race, as well as several documentary projects. Their proposal is included as Attachment No. 1 to this report.

If the City Council approves the proposed concept of an agreement it will be executed under the City Manager's authority and will outline the scope of the project, the obligation to each party, the payment schedule, and ownership and authorization of the use of the production materials.

FISCAL IMPACT

The Centennial Budget in the Tourism and Marketing Budget includes $75,000 for the Centennial documentary film.

Centennial Vignettes Production Proposal

By

Production Manager - Pat Bischetti

Mission Statement

The scope of this project is to deliver to the City of Beverly Hills a series of short “Vignettes” (or commercial grade spots) that both celebrate the City’s Centennial and provide valuable promotional material to be used for distribution to media, social networks and potential visitors to the City.

While the Vignettes will provide valuable documentation of the city’s Centennial events, our key purpose is to create short films that move above and beyond standard daily news coverage. Each will be a unique hybrid that will extend the shelf life of the centennial events and promote the image of Beverly Hills to a national and international audience.

Additionally this project will create an archive, or body of work, that will be available to the Committee and the City for use at a later date. They will provide a framework for a documentary should one be commissioned in the future.

We will build on our four months of research and development to produce Vignettes that are upbeat, luxurious and surprising to anyone who is unfamiliar with the amazing variety of experiences that Beverly Hills has to offer.

OBJECTIVES

To showcase Beverly Hills Centennial celebrations and the planned events. To use them as a springboard for a series of multi platform vignettes. To do so in a fresh and original way.

B.

To fully exploit social media.

C.

To coordinate with the Conference and Visitors Bureau to augment their basic three-pronged strategy Stay, Dine, Shop.

D.

The fourth leg of the stool is celebrity. The goal is to have as much celebrity involvement as possible. This is beneficial when it comes to social media.

Designing the Vignettes to be timely while still providing the spine for a longer more traditional documentary down the road should one be mandated.

F.

To have, at the end, not only a series of gem-like Vignettes, but a treasure trove of gorgeous material that the city can use in the future.

WHY THESE VIGNETTES ARE VALUABLE

These Vignettes are designed to go above and beyond conventional news coverage and video press releases. They are designed to be a lasting and invaluable asset to the image and promotion of Beverly Hills as a destination.

They will be tightly edited, stylized pieces with a very distinctive look and feel. Each one will tell its own story – using the events of the Centennial celebration, but putting them in the historical context. We are not selling just a single event, but the myth and magic of a legendary zip code.

While local news coverage serves a local audience, our pieces are made for broader distribution. Our focus is getting the great news about Beverly Hills to as large an audience as possible – national and international... As we are not strictly limited to a specific length or time slot, the pieces are more versatile. As each is relatively short, they can easily be “tailored” for specific media outlets.

In terms of celebrity participation, we have the advantage of offering them far more than local exposure. We will be offering broader distribution across several platforms.

Finally, while the Vignettes will provide a beautiful and sophisticated documentation of the Centennial celebrations, we will also be shooting our pieces with an eye to future use. As the city will acquire all the material, not just the edited pieces, they’ll have a valuable archive to use as they choose – including a future documentary if the city chooses to commission one.

In short, our project offers incredible value for a modest investment. An average budget for a single 30 second commercial is often far greater than 75,000.00 – we are offering a series for the same price.

The Vignettes

1. Celebrating a Community

No other city in the world can boast of a main drag like Rodeo Drive. But the real city of Beverly Hills is the community behind the myth and the glamorous image. This Vignette will certainly feature Rodeo Drive, but it will move beyond the world's premiere shopping street to showcase a vibrant creative and civic community.

We'll use the Centennial events to illustrate not just the sophisticated glamour of Rodeo Drive, but its vitality as the main street of a vibrant community. Our approach will be to move from the street to inside the boutiques - to feast on the clothes, the jewelry, the luxury that is Rodeo.

There is a reason why everyone from Prada to Ralph Lauren to Jimmy Choo has to be here.

But that's only the start of our story. While the Year of the Horse celebration demonstrates an international worldview, the Block Party is a Beverly Hills neighborhood event. It not only celebrates commerce. It celebrates community. The community behind the glossy image is intensely alive – as proud of its farmer's market as it is of Rodeo Drive. Where else is the Mayor's Monday meeting a healthy walk-around town with residents while they discuss community issues and give a shout-out to local business. In this vignette we'll also be visiting Beverly Drive and Little Santa Monica and the many other streets where commerce meets creative energy.

2. The Centennial Cookbook/BH Dining

The Centennial Cookbook and its corresponding events provide a glimpse of the legendary Beverly Hills eateries of the past, but it also showcases the city's current culinary stars. Our segments will feature up-close-and-personal visits to the kitchens of Beverly Hills' most celebrated chefs. The emphasis will be on the chef in the kitchen, the actual creation of the recipes in the book as well as a look at what goes into the daily art and science of running a top restaurant. The focus will be on the chef and the food with luscious close-ups. The piece will be, literally, a visual feast. We'll also get a look at the front of the house and the restaurant as part of the Beverly Hills community. Our narrative will be provided by the chef himself through a series of informal interviews and commentary.

Not only can the Centennial Cookbook piece go on the Beverly Hills and CVB sites, it can be distributed by the chefs on their own websites and sent to travel, airline and food magazines as well as to local and national broadcast outlets. They will work for both social media and more traditional outlets.

3. The Visual & Performing Arts and the Annenberg Center

The Annenberg Center will be the crown jewel of this segment. As the new anchor of the City's cultural life it provides a springboard for a Vignette about the city vibrant arts scene. The complex is a perfect symbol of the city's history, its present and the glorious possibilities for the future. The Wallis unquestionably catapults the City into a destination for the arts. We would use current performances to showcase the venue, spending time backstage with cast and crew, but also using front of house arrivals to capture the sense of a night out in Beverly Hills. We will also use footage of the celebrity-heavy opening gala and Wallis Annenberg herself. The Annenberg Center material would serve as an opening act for the city's other theatres and galleries, for the Arts of Palm and the city's other brilliant public arts installations. The message: when it comes to the arts, Beverly Hills has arrived.

4. Suite 100/BH Hotels

The Suite 100 hotel is a special and unusual event that deserves national attention and more. It easily meets all the criteria of our project. It's about history. It's about nostalgia. It's about the city's place as the capital of the American film industry. It's about all the myth and magic that makes 90210 the only universally known zip code in the world. It goes without saying that the event provides brilliant visuals and the kind of wow factor that could draw a lot of very flattering publicity from national media as well as getting some serious on-line traction. By getting us inside and behind the scenes of some of the most storied and luxurious hotels in the world, this Vignette will provide a rich complement to the CVB's strategy. Stay! Finally, by including interviews with the designers, this event allows us to feature the city as a hotbed of cutting-edge style and design. Numerous Beverly Hotels will be featured.

5. Greystone Mansion & Rodeo Drive Concours d'Elegance

The two treasured events present a great opportunity to showcase the elements of community that make the Beverly Hills so special. It also allows us to showcase the City's love affair with the automobile.

Again, it works on several levels. It lets us portray a rich part of the city's history – the speedway. It gives us lively and colorful events to illustrate the tradition - as well as letting us indulge visually in the luxury and glamour that is the city's calling card.

6. The Beverly Hills Hotel/Historic Preservation

Although it will be prominently featured in the Suite 100 Vignette, the Beverly Hills Hotel has a special place in the history of the Beverly Hills. In fact, it's virtually impossible to separate the two. It is also a living example of the City's efforts to preserve and protect its history and architectural heritage. We'll include a trove of vintage material as well as using interviews and events to show how the hotel is both a living museum and a vibrant venue with its eye on the future.

7. The Trousdale Estates

In a slightly different vein, we will do one of the Vignettes on the Trousdale Estates and City's iconic architecture. While it is not the focus of one of the official Centennial events, it hits all the right buttons for our series— history, architecture and lots of celebrity names. In October, the New York Times influential style magazine devoted four pages to Trousdale with its unique SoCal vintage and its celebrity pedigree. Home tours would be a good vehicle for our piece. Kelly Wearstler, who is working on a coffee table book on Trousdale, is a possible "tour guide". Also, this is exactly the sort of thing that would be gold for a longer form documentary.

8. Beverly Hills High School and BH school district

Almost as iconic as the city itself, to much of the world, the school personifies the city. We'll talk to some of its most famous graduates, update the famous TV series with a centennial year visit and do our own lively version of a Beverly Hills High School reunion. Working with the Beverly Hills High drama director and other staff, this will showcase BHHS and it's history in a unique way. They are excited to include the students in our vignette. Highlighting our outstanding schools and successful graduates has global appeal.

9. Beverly Hills After Dark

Not everyone has noticed, but Beverly Hills has become the home of an ultra-chic nightlife scene. From small bars to steakhouses to the trendy hotel lounges, we visit the City's top after dark venues. We'll also check out a clutch of new clubs and jazz spots, to show how the city throbs long after the sun goes down.

OVERALL CREATIVE STRATEGY

Structure

We propose opening each segment with a relatively simple graphic that would serve as a unifying feature for the campaign. Our editor, Greg Cooke, has a substantial arsenal of graphic programs and has suggested several options. One is a “birthday card” that would display the Centennial banner or logo and then “open” to bring the segment to full screen. This is a relatively simple theme but very distinctive.

When a celebrity is involved we would use them to introduce and close the segment.

And we would use a celebrity signature to sign the birthday card.

Our interviews will tell a story. For example, Wolfgang Puck will talk about his flagship restaurant and why it’s important that it be situated in Beverly Hills.

The interview style will be informal and active. One would rather see Puck tasting the day’s dinner special in the kitchen at Spago than sitting in an armchair in a hotel suite. The idea is to see each character active in their own milieu. No conference room interviews. Nothing static.

Style

Our look will be highly stylized – a far cry from news stories or video press releases. We’re talking about quick cuts, saturated color, a fast pace and breath-taking photography. Each Vignette will be a self contained commercial grade story in itself.

At the same time, our editing process allows for both flexibility and versatility. If a situation arises, a Vignette can be customized very quickly for a particular event or outlet.

Distribution

As soon as each Vignette is shot and edited we will work with the committee, the City, the Conference and Visitors Bureau, the Chamber of Commerce and any other appropriate partners to refine distribution.

The key mandate for the project is social media so that will be the most obvious outlet. There are also numerous other options. For examples, our celebrities will have their own sites and twitter threads that can link to our pieces or maximize views.

We are also exploring setting up our own website possibly as a sub-site to the CVB Love Beverly Hills site or as a stand alone – and there is some money in the budget for that possibility.

The CVB has indicated that the Vignettes can air on their Beverly Hills screen on Santa Monica Boulevard. They will also be able to use the pieces for their regular marketing meetings. They have a long list of other media outlets available for access.

In addition, we have our own list of possible outlets – including hotel websites, travel websites, travel, real estate and food shows. We're looking for widespread exposure, not just local.

Beverly Hills communications department will also utilize their resources.

Some vignettes will tie into existing centennial committee projects, resulting in great quality documentary style exposure opportunity for those events. Their committee resources will also be another tool for distribution.

A Sample Vignette

Centennial Cookbook

The CVB indicated that this would be most useful to them as the Cookbook is a continuing project. They also indicated that they would love material that featured chefs in their kitchens. This is ideal material for us. This piece has to be, literally, a feast for the eyes with rich, glossy shots of dishes being prepared with a running commentary from our chef. Rich, close up photography is key as well as a sense of a working kitchen in a stellar restaurant. We would also seek to get a sense of the front of the house and, of course, the restaurant's setting in Beverly Hills.

In this case, it's possible that we could maximize our efforts and get a segment of each of several chefs within our budget parameters. We're seeking to include Wolfgang Puck, Thomas Keller, Curtis Stone, and the Drago Brothers.

Marti Galovic Palmer is an award-winning writer / producer and a 20-year survivor of CBS News' 60 Minutes. During 15 years as a producer on the show she wrote and produced over 50 stories, ranging from investigative reports to memorable features on music and the arts. She has won three Emmy awards (Julia, Cara's Story, The Forgotten Veterans) and her work on the well-known 60 Minutes classic, Lenell Geter's in Jail, culminated in both the Dupont and Peabody awards. Her stories have received critical acclaim from the New York Times and The Washington Post among many others.

Marti specialized in stories on the arts, including pieces on Jessye Norman and Julia Migenes. She traveled across the country with the Boys Choir of Harlem, went to Cuba to interview the diva ballerina, Alicia Alonso and followed Kurt Mazur and the New York Philharmonic during a grand tour of Asia.

During her career, Marti worked extensively abroad in Asia, Europe and Latin America. She reported on the Children of the Disappeared in Argentina, traveled through Mexico to report on corruption in the oil industry, hiked to hidden marijuana fields in Belize, covered the restoration of democracy in Nicaragua, followed a dirty-money trail to the Dominican Republic and went to Cuba to interview the diva ballerina Alicia Alonso.

Closer to home she covered money-laundering in Miami and the maquiladora system along the US/Mexico border. Her two-part series on children and guns and her story about the women veterans who were nurses in Vietnam won numerous awards and attracted national media coverage. More recently, she worked on Michael Moore's film Sicko.
